Palawan and from there along the Philippines to Cape Bolinas; from there crossed for Hongkong carrying a press of canvas to keep to windward, ship laboring very hard and starting top gallt, forecastle upwards, about 5 inches and the holts below in the breasthouks notwithstanding which she made the extreme E end of the Lema Islands only on the morn of the 6th December. Tried to weather it by THE ASIATIO BANKING CORPORATION making 3 or 4 tacks, but not being able to do so, kept the ship away for the Tytami Chan-Half way along the Loma Islands got a pilot, kept close along the shore of Tytami; after a while the pilot ordered to keep the thip away; on asking the reason was told there was a sunken rock, right in the way. Told him there was not uny known rock there, nevertholess the ship was kept away though still the Captaindid not believe in a rock being there. Some time after was about to take a sight to ascertain the correcteress of the Opronometer, after taking the time Capt. Shields happened to look out of one of the side windows of the cabin and saw the sea breaking; to lesward of the rocks it was easy to tall a breaker from 2 mere sea. At the time the Observation was taken the extreme W. of Tytami poro N. E. by E. und Sam moon about N.W. 1 W. When the broakers were seen the vossel was past considerably going about 6 miles per hour. Two fishing-Junks standing in for Hongkong, were seen

A RE-MONTHER SQUEST AND THEE, SQUEST AND THEE could be more conducive to the comfort, to place I will vonture to say that the existence of European being left to the mercy of the Chinese laws, is excessively ropulsive, but it, England is totally inapplicable to the duty of proventing or detecting outrages committed by the Supreme Court, commencing this morning

British subjects on the Coast and rivers of China. We are advocates of exterritoriality on principle, but we argue that it were better, for better, that British pirates and murderes should be left to the mercy of the laws of China, hideous as they are, than that immunity from those laws should be the busis o. their desparate vocation. Let exterritoriality be extended to those foreigners who may claim t, who may provide the requisite security and conform to the required regulations; and let those who claim it not until their orimes morit the punishment of death, he left to the fate they have accepted But Mr. Acting Consul Howlett has begged the question. That his intentions were good we make no doubt whatever, but he appears to murder, &c. to have forgotten that his first duty was to protect British interests. The Mandarins clearly applied to him to adopt measures to to prevent either Foreigners or natives, who may sympathise with the rebel cause, from communicating with the Taipings who have
